Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Tuesday 22 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
A dry day, with patchy cloud and sunny spells.

Today:
After a cool start with largely clear skies, patchy fair-weather cloud will bubble up as the day goes on. It will be a dry day, however, with plenty of sunny spells throughout, and feeling warmer than recently in these. Maximum temperature 20 deg C (68 deg F).

Tonight:
Staying largely dry with clear skies through the evening, before cloud builds going overnight ahead of an approaching band of rain, this arriving over western areas through the early hours. Minimum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Wednesday:
A damp and cloudy day, as the band of rain and drizzle continues pushing southeastwards across the region. Rain will ease and become patchier into the evening. Feeling cooler. Maximum temperature 19 deg C (66 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Cloudy Thursday, with some light rain or drizzle at times. Perhaps some heavier showers for a time on Friday. Drier Saturday with brighter spells and feeling warmer.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.